

Offering Website and Social Media Support during COVID-19

During these unusual times, is your website up to date?

Do customers know if you are open or closed for business?

Have your hours changed?

Are you offering support to seniors?

Are you posting to social media on a regular basis?

*We have noticed many of local businesses are not updating their online presence. Let us help you stay connected to your community and let them know you care!

Health and government officials are working together to maintain the safety and health of the American people. More than ever, small businesses need to communicate with their customers on changes in services, products offered, social distancing protocols, hours of operation and more. Given the ever evolving state of the Coronavirus in our communities, keeping your online presence up to date is everything. That's where people are. Online and at home.

Webs For Good is currently offering *significantly discounted rates for website and social media support to help our community stay informed. We offer businesses and non-profits immediate support to inform customers, donors, and the general public of changes to their business.
